Preliminary Matters

Charge

As the Respondent was not present, the Discipline Committee proceeded as if the Respondent had pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Witnesses

Ms. Patterson called two witnesses for the Society (in the order in which called): Ms. Sharon Armstrong, Vice President, Business Development of the Society (responsible for CPLD), and Ms. Katharine M. Harvey, Vice President, Regulatory Affairs and Registrar of the Society.

As the Respondent was not present, there was no evidence led on behalf of the Respondent.

Summary of Evidence

The Discipline Committee heard the witnesses, and reviewed all of the exhibits tendered as evidence. It is convenient to summarize this evidence.

Continuous Professional Learning and Development

Ms. Sharon Armstrong explained the contents of the Society's Document Brief, Exhibit 1.

Policy Requirements

The Board of Governors of the Society approved a policy dated May 8, 2004, requiring all Members, except retired Members (and except on a temporary basis, Members unable to work due to illness or disability), to undertake Continuous Professional Learning and Development. The purpose of the requirement stated in the policy is:

to facilitate the continuous professional development of CMAs' competencies to ensure they provide services of high quality to clients, employers, other stakeholders, and the public at large.

Certified Members are required to obtain a minimum of 120 learning credits over a three year period beginning July 1, 2004, and 30 learning credits annually. The range of qualifying activities articulated in the Policy is very broad, and many of the routine activities undertaken by Members qualify for the credits. Members are required to report the achievement of their CPLD activities using the Society's on-line reporting system.

Communications Prior to Introduction of CPLD Requirements

Commencing in February 2004, the Society communicated extensively with the Members, explaining the nature of the CPLD requirements, alerting them of the time-lines for compliance, and generally offering suggestions upon how the credits could be achieved. Included in the communications was information as to what would happen if a Member failed to meet the CPLD requirements.

All communications provided an access point for further information, by way of website particulars, an email address and a name and telephone number that the Member could call.

Communications After Introduction of CPLD Requirements

Although the communications to Members prior to the introduction of the CPLD requirements were general in nature, after CPLD has become a requirement, the Society began to target individual Members who were not recording their CPLD credits on-line. These communications were focused upon trying to encourage Members to comply with the Society requirements. For the approximately 70% of Members who had provided email addresses, the earlier of these communications took the form of email messages; and for those who had not provided email addresses (or for those to whom the sent email messages had “bounced back”), the Society sent the same message via mail.

As time went on, emails and letters were sent to Members delinquent in their reporting urging them to comply, and noting that failure to comply could result in disciplinary proceedings on the basis of professional misconduct. In addition, the Society arranged for telephone calls to non-compliant Members advising them of their failure to report the required credits, or if the telephone call went to a voicemail system, leaving a message to the same effect. As time went on, the email, letter and telephone messages became somewhat more aggressive.

In those circumstances in the 2008-2009 year in which non-compliant Members had paid their membership dues, the Society notified them specifically that to keep their memberships up-to-date, they would have to become compliant with the CPLD requirement, and warning them that disciplinary proceedings would follow if they failed to do so.

As with communications before the CPLD requirement came into force, all communications provided an access point for further information, by way of website particulars, an email address and a name and telephone number that the Member could call.

Status of Respondent's Credits

The Respondent did not enter any credits into the on-line system or otherwise report them, did not seek an exemption, and did not submit a plan for how he might achieve compliance.

Complaint to Complaints Committee, and Notice to Respondent

By letter dated November 21, 2008, Mr. Merv Hillier complained to the Complaints Committee that the Respondent was guilty of professional misconduct for failure to report his CPLD activities for the period July 1, 2004 to June 30, 2007 as required by the Policy. By letter dated December 1, 2008, Katharine M. Harvey wrote to the Respondent advising him of the complaint and attaching a copy, and advising him of the requirement in accordance with the Bylaws to reply to the Complaints Committee with an explanation or representations within 30 days of receipt of the letter. The Respondent did not reply as required.

Response of Respondent

As the Respondent was not present, there was no response on behalf of the Respondent.

Submissions

Ms. Patterson submitted that the Society had proven that the Respondent had breached his obligations respecting CPLD and had failed to respond to the Society when required to do so, and was therefore guilty on both counts of professional misconduct.

On the assumption that the Discipline Committee would in fact find the Respondent guilty on both counts, Ms. Patterson requested the following penalty:

the Respondent be reprimanded, with the reprimand to be recorded on the Respondent's record;

the membership of the Respondent be cancelled/revoked and the removal of the name of the Member for the record of Members;

the imposition of a fine of $5,000 payable on or before 30 September 2010;

require the Respondent to return his certificate of membership to the Society forthwith;

the notice of the decision and order of the Discipline Committee disclosing the professional misconduct to include the name of the Respondent;

request that, in the event that the Respondent applies for readmission to the Society, the Board of Governors review and consider the file of these proceedings.

As the Respondent was not present, there was no response to the Society.

Findings on the Charges

The Discipline Committee considered both the oral and written evidence presented and the submissions made, and found the evidence presented to be credible and reliable. The Discipline Committee is satisfied that the Society has established the facts supporting the allegations set out in paragraphs 1 and 2 of the Notice of Hearing. Accordingly, the Discipline Committee finds that the Respondent failed to comply with the Bylaws and Code of Professional Ethics of the Society in that:

contrary to the requirements of the "Continuous Professional Learning and Development (CPLD)" Policy approved by the Board of Governors of the Society on May 8, 2004, the Respondent failed to report the required Continuous Professional Learning and Development for the period July 1, 2004 through June 30, 2007; and contrary to the Bylaws, the Respondent failed to reply in writing to the letter from the Society dated December 1, 2008, in which a reply was specifically requested within thirty (30) days of receipt of such letter;

such failures constituting professional misconduct by the Respondent as that term is defined in the Bylaws, and the Professional Misconduct and Code of Professional Ethics Regulation of the Society.

The Discipline Committee finds that the Respondent is guilty of professional misconduct as that term is defined in Sections 20(2)(b) and 20(2)(e) of the Bylaws of the Society in effect in 2005, 2006 and 2007, and as is currently defined in Sections 1(2)(b) and 1(2)(e) of the Professional Misconduct and Code of Professional Ethics Regulation, and is in breach of Section 19 of the Bylaws of the Society in effect in 2005, 2006 and 2007 and Sections 22 and 31 of the current Bylaws of the Society.

Order

Having found the Respondent guilty of professional misconduct as noted above, the Discipline Committee unanimously orders as follows:

1. Under the authority of paragraph 6 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, the Discipline Committee orders that John Oulahen be reprimanded the particulars of which Reprimand are attached to this Order, and that such Reprimand be recorded on the Respondent's record.
2. Under the authority of paragraph 1 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, the Discipline Committee revokes the membership of John Oulahen, and directs that the name of John Oulahen be removed from the record of Members of the Society.
3. Under the authority of paragraph 8 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, the Discipline Committee imposes a fine of five thousand dollars ($5,000) payable in a lump sum on or before 30 September 2010.
4. Under the authority of paragraph 4 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, requires the Respondent to return his certificate of membership to the Society forthwith.
5. Under the authority of paragraph 11 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, the Discipline Committee orders that:
 - notice of the decision and order of the Discipline Committee disclosing the name of the Member and brief particulars of the professional misconduct be published and distributed to the Board and to the Members in the Society journal, and be published in the local or daily newspaper of the community or communities where the Member carries on business; and
 - the decision and order of the Discipline Committee, together with the written reasons for the decision and the name of the Member with brief particulars of the finding of professional misconduct, be published and maintained in the public area of the Society's website;the Discipline Committee has determined that disclosure of the name of the Member by publication to the Board, in the Society journal and on the Society website, and in the local or daily newspaper of the community or communities where the Member carries on business, is required in the public interest, and that its disclosure would not be unfair to the Member.
6. Under the authority of paragraph 11 of s.35(4) of the Certified Management Accountants Act, the Discipline Committee requests that, in the event that the Respondent applies for readmission to the Society, the Board of Governors would review and consider the file of these proceedings.

Decision and Order rendered on the 20th day of May 2010.
